

How is the price determined?

Our goal is to produce puppies which are true to the breed standard. A lot of thought, research, planning and work goes into finding the best cross to produce the best qualities in these dogs. We find that in each litter, no matter how perfect the parents are, there may be the following three types of pups and we price them according to this criteria.

Show quality – This is a pick puppy which exhibits the qualities looked for in a confirmation show dog. These would include excellent pedigree, proper structure and movement and free of disqualifying faults as described in NAMASCUSA breed standard. This puppy is sold as having the potential to show and titled in the conformation ring.

Breed quality – This is a pup which has the potential to develop into a dog of sufficient merit that, though it may or may not title, it will have no genetic faults or shortcomings that should prevent it from being considered as a dog to be bred to a like or better dog.

Pet quality – These puppies are sold only as pups to be spayed or neutered. This pup may or may not have a disqualifying fault or other shortcomings that would prevent it's being considered for showing and/or breeding. If there is a fault, it will not prevent the puppy from living an otherwise normal and healthy life.
